GIANTS WIN OUT IN THE NINTH

DOVE FROM BRIDGE TO HIS DEATH

Old Merchant Plunged from Washington Structure Into Harlem.

GAVE DOCTOR THE SLIP.

Was to Go to Sanitarium—Nearly Hit Oarsman Titus at End of 135-Foot Dive.

Rather than go to a sanitarium Frederick William Hanning, a retired dry goods merchant, fifty-six years old, of No. 472 West One Hundred and Forty-eighth street, committed suicide to-day by diving from the middle span of Washington Bridge, 135 feet above the Harlem River. He struck the water a few feet from a shell in which Constance Titus, the oarsman, was sculling up the river, sank, arose and then went out of sight and was swept away. The body has not been recovered. Mr. Titus is of the opinion that the suicide was killed by the impact of his collision with the water.

Mr. Hanning was an invalid and was walking across the bridge with his physician, Dr. George S. Harrington, of No. 87 West One Hundred and Forty-eighth street. He was chatting with the doctor until the middle of the bridge was reached, when he made a sudden dash for the rail.

Angelo Yaro, a workman, tried to intercept Mr. Hanning and actually had his hand on his shoulder, but before he could catch a secure hold the merchant had thrown himself free of the bridge and was whirling over and over in his descent.

Hanning had long been a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia. For some time he had been under the constant care of Dr. Harrington, but the doctor had not satisfactorily responded to treatment and at a conference yesterday between the family and Dr. Harrington it was determined that the patient should go to a sanitarium. He agreed that this was best and was apparently resigned to the arrangement, which provided for his departure from New York to-day at noon.

Previous to to-day he had been allowed to take long walks alone. His favorite stroll was from his home in One Hundred and Forty-fifth street up Amsterdam avenue to One Hundred and Eighty-first street and across Washington Bridge to the Bronx, thence back by way of High Bridge or Macombs Dam Bridge. Generally these rambles kept him out most of the day and Dr.

BY FRANK W. THORP.

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, Sept. 13.—Everything looked favorable for perfect racing here to-day, and in consequence a good-sized crowd was in attendance.

The programme had some good fields, as has been the case ever since the opening day. The feature was a steeplechase for four-year-olds and upward, over a two-mile course.

The second event, the Ocean View Handicap, for three-year-olds at a mile and a sixteenth, contained some interesting material for the talent.

The track was fairly good and fast drying out.

Burleigh Off Badly.

Burleigh was much the best of the lot in the first, but the finish found him third. When the barrier was sprung he was on his hind legs, rearing, and when he got walled down to running he was next to last. He nearly closed this gap under careful handling, but the effort told in the final furlong, for he was beaten by a narrow margin. The winner was Cedarstrome, a 4 to 1 shot. He got up in the last stride and beat Ancestor a neck. Burleigh was just a head further back, found the favorite, was outrun all the way.

Balzac Stood Plunge.

The betting indicated a soft spot for Balzac, and that is what it proved. Hogan sent him to make the running with the drop of the flag, and for the remainder of the trip it was just a case of his not falling. He blundered at the last jump, but his rider soon had him going again and he won as he pleased. Cedre was second, all the way, and beat Calorahatchia twelve lengths for second money. The Gun threw his rider at the Liverpool.

Sufficiency Calloped Home.

Sufficiency was pointed to the far turn in the third race, then moved left, and rounding into the home stretch was in front.

Alwin made a reputation at the Ocean View Handicap, and was one of the best of the lot in the race.
